LE2000™

Protect Your Car and Belongings

LE2000™ is the first self-powered miniaturized asset tracking and remote control device so unique it has received five US patents including US 6297768. It uses the US Military's Global Positioning Satellite System to locate an asset then it communicates back using proprietary worldwide cellular phone communications networks to report location, sensor status and other data.

LUNAREYE system users can receive the reports and control their assets via the Internet, two-way pager, or by phone. The LE2000™ is a completely covert (hidden) device, installed out of sight. LE2000™ operates on its own battery for extended periods depending on frequency of use. When installed on a vehicle or other powered asset, it works on the vehicle's battery or asset power and switches to its own battery if the external power source fails or is disconnected

FEATURES

- Reports asset location, speed and direction via the Internet or telephone on-demand.
- Geo-fencing provides an invisible fence around the asset each time it is parked and reports any violation to the asset owner. Owner selectable perimeters include: 1500ft., and 1, 5, 10, 15, 30, 50, 75 or 100 miles.
- Remote door unlock and starter if feature(s) are installed on asset*
- If the asset has an aftermarket or factory alarm that triggers for one cycle, LE2000 reports the condition*
- Reports speeding at selectable alert levels: 55, 65, 75, or 85 mph exceeded for 30 seconds
- User configurable to Auto-Report location every five minutes, scaleable to once each day or when a state line is crossed.
- Automatic low battery alerts for the LE2000 battery or for an external vehicle battery or asset power source.

*Some options may require additional parts and install time
